Your Community Needs YOU...

Yes—it is time to elect a new Village Council in October. The future of your community rests in the hands of the people who sit on the Council making decisions that affect every single person who chooses to live in Alliance.

Do you have ideas about :

- ★ How to support existing businesses
- ★ How to attract new businesses
- ★ How to maintain or grow our population
- ★ What services we need and could realistically get
- ★ Any way to improve the quality of life here

Do you have some time that you are willing to give to the betterment of your community?

If you feel that changes are needed, now is your opportunity to do something about it.

Pick up nomination papers at the Village Office.

Registration at the Village Office— 9 AM
Pledge sheets available online, or at the Post Office

Our community of Alliance has always been a big supporter of this event. Since our school closed, we have not had as many runners, but how about getting on board and coming out to show our support once again.

Terry Fox did not set out to become a hero, but Terry has touched the world with his determination to give hope to cancer patients.

2010 marks the 30th anniversary of the Marathon of Hope. It has expanded worldwide and by 2009 has raised almost $ 500 million for Cancer research.

“I'm not a dreamer, and I'm not saying this will initiate any kind of definitive answer or cure to cancer, but I believe in miracles. I have to.” Terry Fox

ACDC

Thanks to AWO and ACDC members the local phone directory is now ready for the printers.

Thanks to funding from the Norman Johnston Memorial fund, the Peace Park will soon have a plaque explaining the reason why the rocks, water, plants, and lantern are placed as they are.

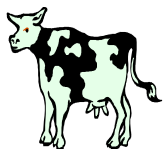

Come out and enjoy the Mad Hatter Tea and jam party at the Museum on September the 18th. This is Alliance's way of celebrating Alberta's Arts days.

Several local "ambassadors" too in the Trail of the Buffalo's ambassador tour of the Castor area. Thanks to Larry Davidson, the Paintearth Economic Development Officer for organizing this enjoyable event. We had a boat ride on the Parr Reservoir, visited the Pharmacy Museum, the Hospital Historical site and Circle Square Ranch.

Thank You, Thank You, Thank You!!!

I first of all need to apologize for not sending out thank you cards a year ago. It wasn't because I didn't appreciate what this beautiful community did for my family and myself, it was more because I didn't want to face reality. One year later I still do not want to face reality but I do want to thank each and everyone of you.

From those who responded to the scene, to those who just stood quietly on the side lines waiting to pick up the pieces of my life. Thanks to all those who brought gifts of food and beautiful flowers. Thanks to all who sent beautiful cards full of reassuring words. Thanks to those who brought out their trailers for our friends who travelled a great distance to pay their last respects. Thanks to the Peter Spady family for the use of their cooling trailer. Thanks to Jerry Mandel and his men for getting the yard in beautiful shape for the celebration, Thanks to Leslie for arranging the tents and porta-potties. Thanks to those who took the beautiful pictures and videos. Thanks to the fire department for their quick response to the accident and for leading our bikes safely to our destination. Thanks to the Legion for the tables and chairs and the squares for the lunch. Thanks to all that have shown their ongoing support when my world seems to be crumbling down around me.

To Rev. Jope for his wonderful service, even though the P.A. system failed us.

Thanks to all our riders, what a beautiful tribute to a wonderful man. Keith would have been very proud. I know that we were!!! Thank you to all that showed their support and respect at the Celebration of Life. I could go on forever with my gratitude but you all know who you are and you should pat yourself on the back. You all make me very proud to be part of such a loving, caring community. We will never forget what you have done! I can never repay anyone for what they have done for us, but I will be forever grateful. If I have missed anyone, please forgive me. Once again, from the bottom of our heart.....THANK YOU!

Asking for your Opinion again ...

Our arena has been valued at $2.3 million for insurance purposes which will increase the annual Premium from $ 2480 / year to well over $ 6000 / year.

If the arena were to be destroyed, insurance would pay $2.3 million at this rate.

We currently insure it for $ 550,000.

QUESTION—

Do you think the Village should increase our insurance coverage to $ 2.3 million at a cost of over $6,000 annually? Yes No

Would we build a new arena if something happened To the current arena? Yes No

We need input prior to the Sept. 18 Council meeting.

Family Resource Centre Parents for Fun in Flagstaff

Parents for Fun in Flagstaff is a group of volunteer parents from Killam whose vision was to provide a safe place where the parents, families, and children of Flagstaff County could be supported in a designated indoor space.

Thanks to the dedication of volunteers and the support of the community, the Family Resource Centre is Now open in the Killam Agriplex. There is a drop-in fee of $ 2 / visit, or an annual membership of $35 to come as often as you like for the rest of 2010.

COFFEE TALK—is a drop in program for parents/caregivers to get together with other parents and discuss topics of interest. There will be speakers and opportunities for round table discussions. This is open to any parent/ caregiver.

Flagstaff County and Area Residents Encouraged to do Survey on Education and Training Needs

A needs assessment that will identify and address education and training needs in Flagstaff County and other rural areas is beginning August 23, 2010. The Battle River Training Foundation (BRTF) and the Alberta Rural Development Network (ARDN) are collaborating on the project, which includes the distribution of a survey.

The survey will explore questions such as: What do rural residents need in the form of education and training? What do local businesses need in terms of employee skills? What are the best ways to deliver accessible training? What are the barriers to getting training?

Once the results are compiled, ARDN will distribute the information to post-secondary institutions in the area to help them eradicate gaps and fill needs. BRTF will use the information to refine the courses that they offer access to and work with post-secondary members in their area to provide more opportunities. The partnering organizations also hope to get feedback from other Alberta rural residents so they can apply the information to increasing learning opportunities across the province.

ARDN and BRTF share a common goal – the education and training of rural Albertans. ARDN is a consortium of 21 post-secondary institutions working together to support rural development through education and training. BRTF provides adults in Flagstaff County and East Central Alberta with access to courses in the region and elsewhere.

“We need to invest time and money in our collective future, ensuring that rural Alberta endures throughout the coming generations,” says Kimberley Bonnett, executive coordinator of BRTF.

Urban and rural communities have many differences in their needs for education and training. People in small towns and villages have more challenges and obstacles to overcome: travel distances, the isolation of their communities, and minimum enrolment numbers are only three things that hinder access to rural learning opportunities.

“By assessing the needs of rural residents and employers, we can make sure that the Battle River Training Foundation and nearby post-secondary institutions can offer Flagstaff County residents the courses and training that they really need,” says Dee Ann Benard, executive director of ARDN. “The goal is to provide opportunities that will make a substantial difference in their community.”

Rural Albertans are encouraged to complete the online survey which can be found at www.brta.ca or www.ardn.ca. Surveys must be completed between August 23 and October 3, 2010. The results will be posted on the ARDN and BRTF websites by November 5, 2010.
